“ I didn't meet Grace until she arrived at Brookdale - Shadowbriar. Grace loved her Catholic faith and lived fully and generously. I looked forward to visiting with her each week and she looked forward to receiving communion until the very end. She would reminisce about life in the northeast and trips that the “girls” would take into New York City on the subway. And she talked about lunches out with the St. John Vianney volunteers that she served with. All fond memories that brought a smile to her face. I could also look around her room and see signs of love, from those who cared for her...like the plexiglass deflector on her room's air conditioning unit, so the air didn't blow directly on her. She proudly commented that a nephew of hers, put that together for her. Grace knew when she gave up her car keys that her world would become a bit smaller, but she still maintained a positive attitude about life, right up to the end. Grace, we will miss you. Glen
