They raised their family with faith in Jesus as the cornerstone for everything.

Lee enjoyed crossword puzzles, fishing and carpentry projects at their home. She also enjoyed spending time with her children and grandchildren. She inherited her father's sense of humor. She was quick with a joke and loved to make people laugh and feel welcomed. She was loved by those who knew her and is greatly missed, but we know that she is at home with the Lord, rejoicing and celebrating with all her family who went before her.

“ I met Lee at the Scofield summer camp for girls in 1967... a few months before her wedding to Jim. She was a fun loving, fascinating woman... well read and well traveled. We stayed in touch over the years, but when I moved to Houston in 1996 I thought I had lost her. I never thought to look right where I had moved.

Lee was one of the kindest, most decent people I ever knew. She was devoted to her family; yet, she made time for others who needed her. I never saw a down side to Lee. She was the embodiment of everything I thought a Christian should be.

I know Lee's family will miss her, but I also know she's resting with her loved ones who passed before her.
