

Phylis S. Scott

May 25, 1935 - November 7, 2017

Phylis Scott, a kind sister, beautiful wife, and loving mother died as she lived - on her own terms, yet with care and concern for others. She passed away in her sleep comfortably in her own home as she desired.

Phylis an adventurous and and intrepid soul was born and lived her life in Houston Texas. She studied at Lamar High School and Texas Tech University. Phylis worked diligently in the banking industry until marrying Harold Scott Jr..

Her adventurous spirit took her on a journey to live and work in Denver Colorado where she made friends that she loyally kept for the rest of her life.

She returned to Texas to start a family with Harold Scott Jr.. The loving couple enjoyed country line dancing, operas, Willie Nelson concerts, road trips, and arts events at Miller Outdoor theater.

She supported and attended her son's, Harold Scott III, artistic and athletic endeavors with zeal attending many baseball games and colligate fine arts events. Phylis allowed, endorsed, and glowed over her son's noisy band practices in family garage.

She loved her older brother, Larry Shumway, her niece Lee Shumway, and nephews Landon and Lane Shumway. She always remembered birthdays, anniversaries, and holidays sending cards and notes of love.

Phylis was an animal lover, avid reader, and movie fan. She was generous and took care of her family and friends as well as supported causes for animals, American Indian rights, orphans, and the hungry.

Phylis made the world a more interesting and better place with her spirit and love.

The sparkle in her eyes and her wonderful smile will be missed.
