“ Chris and I worked together on our Sr Design Project (ChE) at Colorado Mines. We also endured a horrible semester together in an Arts History class.

We traveled to Tijuana over semester break and had some adventures better left unmentioned, but survived.

I visited him in New Orleans over New Years break but the lost track of him in fairly mysterious ways.

He did call he at 2:00 am once when I was hospitalized from a gut infection I picked up in Mexico. Never did figure out how he tracked be down.

If any part of our physical form survives into the next life, it would be the piercing gaze of those pale blue eyes, poised above the early warning sign grin, and the sardonic comment soon to follow.

RIP, friend
