“ One of the best memories I have with my father was around 1990 when we took a trip to the Redwoods in Northern California. I would have been 10 years old. It was a beautiful clear night lit up bright by all of the stars in the sky. Being high in the mountains and away from the city, it was a great view. We were laying out on a picnic table watching the stars and my dad told me. Son, you can do whatever you want to in this world and whatever you decide to do I will support you. I will always be there for you, I just want you to know that. I always knew my father would be there for me and he never let me down. Love you dad!

This is beautiful. It is so important to remember the good times , and it helps us endure the tougher times in our lives . Hold on to these memories and stay strong .

There are so many wonderful memories and so many good times! Experiencing this sadness of losing Ron I have found myself smiling as I reflect back on those happy memories and good times. They do bring a smile to my heart. Ron will be in my heart forever as I will always treasure those good times and our friendship.

Does anyone else remember the 'cinnamon' chili he made from scratch? Or is it just me?!?!? :-)

*Love and miss you Ron,

Uncle Ronnie would always be there to greet you with a warm, close, genuine hug. He would hug with his whole soul and say, "I love you! How have you been?" And he meant it so much. He always wanted to know about me and how I was feeling. He was the funny one. The caring one. The hugging one. The loving one. The COOL one. The listening one. The sensitive one. The laid back one. I will miss him so much. And I am ever so blessed to have so many loving moments and memories with this wonderful man to cherish forever. Until we meet again, Uncle Ronnie. I love you so much.
